CHANCES ARE, if you spent time today worrying about your dress or the cut of your suit, you put just as much consideration into the décor of your home. But as winterwear gives way to the spring ensembles we've been dreaming about for months, it's not hard to notice that our surroundings may not feel as up-to-date as our apparel. Here, we look toward the trendsetters on the forefront, the fashion designers who've indulged our lust for great style by translating their unique visions into outstanding environs.

▼ Donna Karan's latest home collection focuses on modern classics. Utilizing a soothing color palette in rich fabrics and textures, the bedding ($400-$1,200), quilt ($500) and decorative pillow ($160) create a Zen-like atmosphere anywhere. donnakaranhome.com

▲ In honor of Roche Bobois' 50th anniversary, the French furniture house enlisted fellow countryman Jean Paul Gaultier to design an avant-garde capsule collection. Treasures like modular chairs on wheels, chests masquerading as vintage luggage and these silk printed pillows are a perfect marriage of Gaultier excess and Roche Bobois precision. 200 Madison Ave., 212-889-0700; rochebobois.com

▼ Fendi Casa has designed yet another lavish home collection. Lush materials such as fox, mink and sheepskin are seen throughout, but this Casa Icelite chandelier (price on request) takes center stage with its dramatic form and innovative design. luxuryliving.cz

◀ Diane von Furstenberg's first home collection is finally here. From tabletop to bedding and bath, all of DVF's pieces are bright, bold and full of spirit. We love these Tamarind Yellow Brushstroke espresso cups and saucers ($90, set of 4). Bloomingdale's, 1000 Third Ave.,
